

OUR DOCTORS

Dr. Stuart D. Marks

Dr. Stuart Marks, is a board-certified ophthalmologist who received his undergraduate education at Emory University in Atlanta, then graduated from Ohio State University College of Medicine. After an internship at Riverside Methodist Hospital in Columbus, Ohio, he received residency training in ophthalmology at Ohio State University, and then began private practice in Gainesville, Georgia in 1987. From 1988-1994, Dr. Marks was a clinical instructor of cataract surgery at the Emory University Department of Ophthalmology, Atlanta VA Hospital. Dr. Marks moved with his family to Augusta, Georgia in 1990. He has been a managing partner of Augusta Eye M.D. since 2004 and Medical Director of Augusta Eye Surgery, LLC, since 2008. Dr. Marks has been on Augusta Magazine's list of "Best Doctors" since 1997. He lives in Evans, Georgia with his wife and has two children. Dr. Marks performs cataract surgery, glaucoma surgery, corneal transplantation and plastic surgery of the eyelids at Augusta Eye Surgery, a state-of-the-art outpatient surgery center located onsite.

Dr. William Perry Giles, Jr.

Dr. Giles is a board certified optometrist specializing in primary care treatment of eye disease and contact lens fitting. Dr. Giles attended undergraduate school on a baseball and academic scholarship and graduated from Southern College of Optometry with honors.

Following his training, he established a private optometric practice in Sandersville, GA, where he was voted "Best Eye Doctor" in Washington County. After 12 years of private practice, Dr. Giles helped in designing a new multi-million dollar vision clinic at the University of Georgia, where he became Lead Eye Doctor for the University, providing primary and secondary eye care for all students, faculty, and employees. Additionally, he has been involved in research for multiple brands of newly released contact lenses. With his 14 years of clinical experience, we now happily welcome Dr. Giles and his family to our practice.
